ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a method for distinguishing bacterial from non-bacterial exacerbations of chronic lung disease. The method comprises detecting the presence of elastase in patient sputum containing secretions of the lower respiratory tract.

10 BFLODOCS:500269_1 (76Z601)

5